LABOR CREW ASSISTS IN WORK AT NO FOUR

A working crew of seventeen men came down from the new town site at Allenport on Sunday and assisted in some pressing work at Lock No. 4. Government authorities have found it difficult to get hold of labor, so arrangements were made with labor bosses at the new town site to send down a crew to work Sunday, which they did. The laborers returned to Allenport in the evening.

TOBACCO FUND IS GROWING STEADILY

The tobacco fund of the Mail is growing steadily. Many people of Charleroi are pausing long enough in their usual activities to express their appreciation of the work of the boys by sending in a contribution for the tobacco fund. There is more coming. That we know. And yet, regardless of how much shall come, there will be need for all of it. The boys in the trenches, under the incessant fire of the enemy or waiting the order, "Over the top," will need the solance and comfort that a good smoke can give. We do not appreciate the dangers and difficulties under which they are serving. These conditions will grow worse, for trench life is anything but a plasant vacation.

It is to help these boys, who have answered the summons, and who are preparing themselves for the most strenuous kind of duty, that we appeal. Those at home can replenish their supply at any hour of the day—soldiers in France depends on the folks back home for the meagre supply of tobbaco which gets through. For although there may even be millions of packages sent, they will all be used, for the chances of a deficit ar far greater than a surplus.

In order to contribute to the fund one local industrial establishment is making a canvas among its employes, and a neat sum is expected; stores and business houses could assist in the work by inviting customers to make a donation. The name and address of the donor could be taken and the postal card will be sent them by the recipient of the package. This is a work in which all can help, even if it only a "bit."

WILL PUBLISH THE EXEMPTION LIST

Beginning tomorrow the Mail expects to begin the publication of the exemption list of the Fifth District. This list will embrace the seral number, name and reasons for those who have been exempted by the local board and does not mean that these men have altogether escaped military duty, as it is the intention of David M. McCloskey, Esq., special government attorney, to file appeals in all of these cases, so that those who have been exempted by the boards will have to present good and substantial reasons in order to have the judgment of the lower boards stand. The exemption list is quite lengthy, but it will be very interesting.

REGULAR MEETING OF THE W. C. T. U

The regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held at the home of John Craword, Washington avenue, Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock

CONTINGENT WILL NUMBER 179 MEN

The fact developed today that the next contingent of draftees from the Fifth District of Washington county will number 179 men. In addition to the 131 called for regularly in order to make up the 30 per cent quota there will be 48 additional, in order to fill out the quota which left Donora week before last. When the men were assembled at that tim, it was found that the 175 men who should have been on hand had not reported, 48 failing to answer roll call. This number will have to be made up on the contingent which will leave for Camp Sherman on the 6th inst. The local Board will notify a sufficient number of men to be on hand at the time specified, that the full number of fraftees from this district may entrain at the point yet to be designated.

MANY NEW LABORERS BROUGHT TO MONESSEN

One hundred and seventy-nine laborers were brought into the mills at Monessen on Saturday last. The men arrived on the early morning train and detrained at Lock No. Four, and were taken to the mills by some of the employes.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson McKenna and sons Claude and Harold visited at Roscoe with relatives Sunday.

C. G. Llewellyn, Collector of Internal Revenue for the Pittsburg district, accompanied by the Misses Bess and Jane Kisinger, were visitors with Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Crowley on Sunday.

CORNER STONE PLACED WITH APPROPRIATE CEREMONIES

STEAMBOAT CREWS GET SALARY ADVANCE

All members of the crews employed on the steamers owned by the American Steel & Wire Company, the Carnegie Steel company and the Vesta Coal company were granted an increase of ten per cent in wages, which became effective the first day of October. Thus increase may have a tendency to hold the deck crews, which have heretofore been hard to maintain in the face of severe industrial compensation.

PAIR OF I.W.W'S. ARE ARRESTED

Had Been in Charleroi Several Days Representing a Specialty Company

WERE TAKEN TO CHICAGO

Two members of the I. W. W. wanted in Chicago were arrested in Charleroi Saturday last, the arrest being made by Dupty United States Marshal William B. Harrington, accompanied by Chief Albright.

The men arrested were Jack Law and Harrison George, alias George Gardener, who had been in Charleroi for several days, sellling illuminated crucifixes, being employed by the Eureka Specialty Company of Noorth Side, Pittsburg.

They were maintaining modest quarters with a private family here in town, and were very much out of the public eye. They went to bed Friday night two inconspicuous figures—they awoke in the morning as United States prisoners.

Upon a receipt of telegram from Chicago Friday that Law and George were among the men against whom indictments had been found in the seditious conspiracy investigation by the federal grand jury at Chicago, United States Marshad Joseph Howley of Pittsburg, glanced at two cards he took from a file and at once dispatched Deputy Harrington to Charleroi, to make the arrests.

Law is held as an organizer and George, whose alias is George Gardner, is connected with the publication of "Solidarity," the official I. W. W. organ. Law is said to have been an organizer in the Westinghouse strike in May, 1916.

The arrests were made here so quetely and the man taken away so quickly that outside of the local police no others were any the wiser.

Officials and Citizens Take Part in This Interesting Event

MUSIC BY JUNIOR HIGH CHORUS

The cornerstone of Charleroi's new borough building was laid with appropriate ceremonies on Saturday last, the program having been arranged by a special committee of council composed of J. K. Mitchell, J. K. Hein and C. S. VanVoorhis.

The hour announced for the ceremones was 2 o'clock and shortly after that time everything was in readiness for the begining of the program, which was carried through without a hitch.

W. R. Gaut was master of ceremonies, being introduced by Capt. J. K. Hein, one of the councilmen who had arranged the program of the occasion. Previous to this, however, the Junior High school chorus, under direction of Prof. Daniel, opened the program with that splendid hymn "Come, Thou Almight King" which was fololwed by the invocation delivered by the Rev. John R. Burson.

After Mr. Gaut had taken charge of the exercises, which he prefaced with some well chosen remarks, he introduced David M. McCloskey, Esq., [illegible] released to designate as "Charleroi's live wire attorney," who urged every citizen to a deeper devotion to duty in this time of war. He traced Charleroi's history briefly and paid eloquent tribute to Charleroi's premier citizen, Hon. John K. Tener, and to the memory of the founder of the town, that exceptionaly and splendid man, the late James S. McKean.

Mr. McCloskey was followed by Rev. C. A. Hartung, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, who complimented the citizens as well as the officials that a copy of the Bible had been placed in the cornerstone, and as this book has been placed in this corner stone, said the speaker, so let its teachings be placed in the cornerstone of our lives, that we may erect a superstructure that will endure for eternity.

Mr. Hartung was followed by W. D. Pollock, who was Burgess of Charleroi about twenty years ago, and who recounted some of his experiences when this was but a struggling village, but a town with a spirit of determination of greater triumphs to come. Charleroi had its battles to fight, but it emerged victorious, and today it was taking its proper place in the community of progressive towns throughout the state.

The Junior High chorus sang the "Star Spangled Banner," the large audience standing at respectful attention during its rendition, while all of the men uncovered and remained

DIVERSION FOR THE SOLDIER

The announcement of the departure of Rev. Mr. Whipkey to have charge of one of the entertainment tents of the Y. M. C. A. at one of the six military encampments shows what is being done in order to furnish diversions for the men who are training to be soldiers.

Of course it requires money to finance such a proposition as the Y. M. C. A. has undertaken and a great proportion of it will come from the men, who will be pleased to pay a nominal fee for admission in order to hear some of the best talent in the country, which has been engaged for the work. Lectures, entertainments, musical companies, all of the highest class and under direction of the entertainment bureau of the Y. M. C. A. will give the men that class of entertainment which will bring pleasure as well as profit to them. It is certainly a splendid undertaking and one that reserves the greatest possible success.

NO TRUST WITHOUT FAITH

Germans resent the alleged proposal to force on them a democratic form of government and several outside European observers have remarked that "the proposal of President Wilson to enforce democratic government in Germany is impractical." There has been no proposal to do anything of the sort through direct pressure from without. There has merely been a suggestion that if the German people want to inspire faith in their promises, they would be wise to [illegible] men of lost reputation who now speak for them. "We can not," said President Wilson, "take the word of the present rulers of Germany as a guarantee of anything that is to endure unless explicitly supported by such conclusive evidence of the will and purpose of the German people themselves as the other peoples of the world would be justified in accepting."

Proof that the word of the present rulers of Germany can not be accepted is abundant, and to add to this proof is no doubt one of the chief purposes of the State Department's continuing exposures showing that while the German government made fair promises in the open it was engaged in unscrupulous and outrageous intrigues in the dark. There can be no trust without faith and we can have no faith in a government that plotted to blow up the factories of a friendly nation, schemed to foment industrial warfare in our midst, intrigued to involve this country in war with Mexico and Japan, sought to influence Congress against this nation's will and even attempted to spread deadly disease in Rumania in advance of that country's declaration of war. To treat with such a government is like drawing up a gentlemen's agreement with murderers and thieves.

A FINE SHOWING

Two splendid responses have been received to the Mail's appeal for contributions for the tobacco fund. Of course all contributions are splendid but two of our citizens have come forward with donations of a very substantial character. The fund is now reaching to a very nice sum and already the Mail has about enough money to furnish comfort kits for one hundred men. That is certainly a fine showing, but we believe the Charleroi people will do even greater things before the fund is closed. The needs of the men for tobacco goes on from day to day—we must not be derelict in our support to the men who are in need of this comfort. We appreciate what has been done, but it should only inspire us to even greater things.

THE LIBERTY BOND ISSUE

The second Liberty Loan was placed on sale today and from now until the 27th of October it will be continued with vigor on the part of government officials as well as the various banks throughout the country. The amount of bonds to be placed on sale is $5,000,000,000 with denominations as low as $50, thus putting them within reach of every wage earner. The first Liberty Loan was oversubscribed 50 per cent and while there are many who took a bond there are many others who failed to avail themselves of the opportunity to give of their surplus to finance the war.

This new loan will bear 4 per cent and it is the hope and expectation of the government officials that at least [illegible] to the success of the security, [illegible] will tell you that it is the best investment. Liberty Bonds are splendid collateral and any bank will be glad to loan funds on them. Being placed in such small denominations, they are within the reach of every wage earner.

Furthermore it is a patriotic duty. In these times of war, when the government is preparing a great army for service abroad, the money is absolutely essential for the success of the undertaking. This money can come from the people, from the small wage earner, and from those who have been saving from week to week. It is an investment that gives the greatest security, as well as one of the best investments that could be made. All of us will not be called to the front, but we can be part of the army of men and women who, while at home, can reinforce the boys who have been called to the colors. By buying a Liberty bond we help to sustain and perpetuate the Liberty of which we so proudly boast.

LABOR SHORTAGE

During the month of August, 1917, the Monongahela Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, hired 67 per cent more men for the motive power department than in August, 1916. In other departments the per centage is believed to have been higher, for trainmen, particularly those operating freight trains, appear to be more nomadic in their nature and flow about from place to place.

The draft is taking railroad men as well as others, and this fact serves to keep foremen on the anxious seat in order to fill out their crews for various runs. Last week the Division lost 13 men from the motive power department, and while this is not a lot of men as numbers go, yet it was a serious proposition when it is considered that this department is already short [illegible] help. The coming winter will be a test of the railroads, for even at the present time, with good weather, it is almost impossible to keep all freight moving. With weather conditions unfavorable the troubles of the railroads will be greatly increased, and the movement of freight will be a great deal more difficult.

TEACHER TRAINING AND PROMOTION EXERCISES

A large crowd attended the rally day and promotion day exercises in the Washington Avenue Presbyterion Sunday school Sabbath. Three classes were given diplomas after passing through the "gates" with appropriate exercises. In the evening, teacher training exercises were held. The auditorium was decorated with flowers and bunting in keeping with the teacher training colors. Special seats were reserved for all graduates and the class was one of the largest ever graduated in the church. The following named received diplomas—Mrs. W. E. Hazlett, Miss Helen Fleming, Miss Zella Franks, Miss Hazel Horne, Mrs. Lynn Robertson, Mrs. Edwin McKay, Mrs. H. A. Williams, Mrs. George W. Smith, Miss Bessie Johnson, Miss Estelle Baudoux, and James M. Long.

Meaning of "Purim."

The word "purim," the name of the great annual festival of the Jews, means "lots." This feast commemorates the preservation of the Jews in Persia from the massacre with which they were threatened by Haman (Esther 9). They gave the name purim or "lots" to commemorate the festival because he had thrown lots to ascertain what day would be auspicious for the massacre.

Wanted an Escort.

A little boy had a birthday party, his guests being around the ages of five and six years. After having spent a pleasant afternoon they all started for home at about five o'clock. After a while the little boy's mother noticed two little girls sitting on the steps and said: "You better go home, little girls, before it gets dark." One spoke up and said: "I want a boy to take me home."

First to Sleep in Bathtub.

The first man to sleep in a bathtub is believed to have been an early victim of a hotel proprietor whose house was "full up" and who blithely charged the haggard guest $4 for the privilege. Hotel men promptly took to this scheme most kindly.

MAY HAVE BEEN INDIGESTION

Indianapolis Man Is Puzzled Over Peculiar Action of Hitherto Well-Behaved Automobile.

[illegible] accustomed peace and quiet in the vicinity of Woodruff Place was [illegible] broken late the other evening by a commotion that caused A. L. Smith [illegible] in the first drive, to wonder what particular brand of spooks [illegible] in the hands of Motor cars says the Indianapolis News. Smith put his car in the garage at a [illegible] and [illegible] down, turned off the [illegible], [illegible] the door, hung the key on the [illegible] and went to bed. But that motor car did not seem to be fully satisfied. Perhaps the [illegible] and the smoky garage had something to do with it.

Whatever the nature of the bug under its bonnet, the troubled soul of the automobile found voice along about midnight. From the dark recesses of the garage rose a quavering howl that put to shame all roosters within half a mile. Slumbering neighbors turned over, muttered "What the deuce?" or other synonymous classical references, and peered out of the bathroom windows, while Smith, trusty revolver in one hand and flashlight in the other, padded cautiously garageward. Peering within, nothing appeared, but the car still yelled its head off. Advancing boldly, he commanded, "See here, now, that's enough of this nonsense," and stepped on the running board, at which the car gave a final yelp and subsided. "Now somebody tell me what started it," said Smith next morning, at the caucus of neighbors in the alley. "Sounded mighty spoooky, anyway."

IDEAL METAL FOR MOTORS

Secret of Material Which Has Made German Airplanes Superior to Others Has Been Discovered.

The United States government has learned that the success of the German airplanes is largely attributable to what is known as kaiser zinn metal, which is used for the motors. A piece of this metal was picked up by a British soldier who brought down a German taube. It interested him so much that he subjected it to a scientific test and discovered that it consisted of the following: Copper, 1.58 parts; tin, 92.98 parts, and antimony, 5.44 parts.

This alloy, which is somewhat akin to Britannia metal, was discovered by the Germans about 50 years ago. They first used it as a substitute for silver in the making of all kinds of articles for the dining table, never dreaming that some day it would prove so serviceable in military affairs. It is as light as aluminum, has great tensile strength and unusual resisting power. A prominent American manufacturer of motors has succeeded in duplicating this alloy perfectly, and in a short time several thousand motors made of it will be ready for use. It is claimed that it can be turned out at small expense.

Shall It Be "Langleys?"

As a tribute to the memory of the man who was first to discover, and partly to apply, the rule in aerostatics, to which the world is indebted for the modern advance in aviation, it is proposed that the United States government shall designate the airplanes which it is to send to European battlefields "Langleys." Greater recognition than his work has received should certainly be given to the modest professor, who, theoretically, at least, proved it possible to navigate the air with heavier-than-air machines. But, then, there are the Wrights. No injustice should be done the men who put Professor Langley's theory into practice. Would not "Langwrights" be a better name?—Christian Science Monitor.

May Have Solved Old Problem.

A German scientist claims to have solved the problem of transmitting photographs under the ocean by cable. His process, if successful, represents the solution of an old problem. Photographs have long been transmissible by telegraph by the use of selenium, a metal whose electrical resistance varies with the intensity of the light striking it. But a similar process for cable work has never been perfected hitherto, because of the extreme feebleness of the electric current that must pass through thousands of miles of wire without a relay. The new process is said to make use of the selenium principle and an elaborate system of relays at each end.

Quota, Quote and Unquote.

"Why did it take so long to fill the quotas?" said William Hennessey of the fifth division, repeating a question. "There's a lot of reasons," he answered. "You've got to pay proper respect to Washington by reading all of their orders. Listen to this one about the examination of teeth:

"Repeat following telegram to local boards at once: Period quote physical regulations comma line seven from the bottom substitute quote or unquote for quote and unquote between quote side unquote and unquote two above unquote period, in other words comma man must have two teeth in opposition on one side or the other."—Chicago Herald.

Tenants Wanted.

"I thought that apartment house I put up last winter would prove a sure winner," said the owner.

"Doesn't it pay?" asked his friend.

"No," replied the disgusted owner, "it's a flat failure."—New Haven Register.

When Gloves Became Popular.

Although worn before, gloves did not find favor with women until the fourteenth century, when they were always in evidence. If not on the hands, in them or carried stuck in the girdle, the stitching that made the fingers extending far down the back of the hand and finished off with fancy stitch and embroidery, the gauntlet often jeweled, the whole glove perfumed.

Modern Magic.

The fairy's wand which turned a ragged gown into a dress fit for a princess, and a pumpkin into a coach, is not altogether a myth. The cheerful disposition which sees everything at its best, rather than its worst, makes as wonderful transformations. The magic of cheerfulness is still at work.—Exchange.

What One Needs.

'Tis a good old world to live in so you need yourself a house; to love in, so you need a spouse; to go in, so you need a car or horse; to know in so you need a college course; to read in, so you need some books; to shine in, so you need good clothes and looks.—Exchange.

It Wasn't His Fault.

One youngster in school had delivered a severe kick in the stomach to another lad. When taken to task as to why he had struck his playmate there, he said: "I didn't mean to hit him there, but he turned around just in time."

Needed Experience.

A lady person has to live a good bunch of years before she is more concerned about how her shoes feel to her feet than about how they make her feet look to other women.—Houston Post.

Avoid Sheep Sorrel.

Sheep sorrel is not often eaten by live stock owing to its sour taste, but it is well not to pasture horses or sheep on sorrel as the weed is somewhat poisonous to these animals.

A Lost Art.

The old-fashioned man who used to perform parlor tricks has been superseded by phonographs and player-pianos which any fool can operate.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Easy to Raise Sheep.

Sheep are docile, easily handled, will live on a greater diversity of food, will thrive on pastures earlier in the spring and later in the fall and require less grain than other stock.

A Big Job.

Little Esther stood gazing at the sky, and turning to her mother, said: "Mamma, how do you 'spose God ever got that great big sky up there without breaking it?"

A Tedious Business.

The president of the United States has to sign his name about 20,000 times in the course of a year.

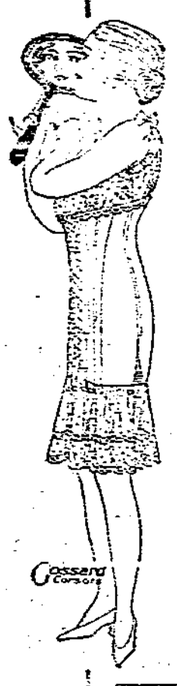
"The Best Dressed Women Wear Gossard Corsets"



IN practically every town and city women make the above statement. Designers in the United States, Canada, Australia, South America, London and Paris, prefer a Gossard over which to design the frocks, dresses and suits of their clients. The best dressed women in Charleroi wear Gossard Corsets.

Being well dressed means being, first, correctly corseted. The growth of the Gossard idea—front lacing, and style plus comfort and wearing service is the result of millions of satisfied wearers. It is quite the thing to say, "I wear a Gossard."

Gossard Corsets continue to win scores of friends because the best dressed women prefer them and will wear no other corsets.

Ideal Curved Back and Short Waisted Figures

Should you, through incorrect corseting, have a poor back line, we suggest a special Gossard which will reduce your lower back or support your abdomen. In a few weeks you will find your figure an ideal average.
Thousands of women have made this experiment successfully.

An expert corsetiere will be only too pleased to fit you to the model especially designed for your individual figure requirments. This involves no obligation. Models at $2.00, $2.50, $3.50, $5.00 and up.

Bobby was seated in the reception room of a hospital awaiting his mother's return from the bedside of a friend. A nurse in passing asked him if he had a good time playing out of doors these fine days. Bobby looked wistful and said there weren't many children in their neighborhood. The nurse asked: "Haven't you any brothers or sisters?" To which Bobby replies, "Oh, yes, but they live with us."

WRECK OF SAND DREDGE RAISED

The wreck of the sand dredge Harriet, owned by the Rodgers Sand company was raised on Saturday last with the combined services of the U S. pump boat and the steamers Rival and Sweet Cake. The wreck was taken down the river and will be docked and repaired and made as good as new before being placed in service again.

The Harriet was destroyed by fire while at work in the Monongahela above Victory, about a month ago. The wreck was turned over to the insurance companies, who in turn sold it back to the sand company. Preparations were at once begun to raise the wreck, which was completed on Saturday. It was found that the hull was in good shape, having been but litle damaged by the fire, while the boilers are apparently in good condition. There will be other material about the wreck which can be used, and when rebuilt, which will be put under way at once, will be practically as good as new. There is great demand for sand in the Pittsburg district at the present time owing to so many building operations and the Rodgers Company will push the work of construction as fast as possible.

CORNER STONE PLACED

so until the last bar of the national anthem had sounded.

The closing address was delivered by Rev. John R. Burson, who gave a patriotic touch to his remarks, and said the new borough building should become a rallying center for the citizens of the community; a structure of which they should be proud, and for which they should thank their officials for planning and erecting.

Following Mr. Burson's address the cornerstone was laid under direction for D. R. Duvall, president of council, J. K. Mitchell, John R. Hein and J. K. Sauters, master bricklayer. With but few preliminaries the stone, suitably inscribed, was placed in its proper position and in a short time was pronounced to be plumb, level and square.

The Junior High chorus sang "America," Rev. Burson pronounded the benediction and the ceremonies came to a proper ending.

A meeting of the Red Cross knitting auxiliary of the First Christian church will be held at the home of the Misses Tina and Jean Furnier, Fifth street and Meadow avenue, Tuesday evening. A cordial invitation is extended to members and friends of the organization to be present. A teacher will be present for the benefit of those learning to knit. At the close of the session refreshments will be served. At a recent meeting held in the church eighteen ladies were present and much interest was manifested in the work.

Chiropractor to Open Free Clinic

W. G. Weddell, D. C. graduate Chiropractor, with offices in Might building, Fifth street has just announced the opening of a unique charitable clinic, which should prove of interest and value to the people in this vicinity. This Chiropractor proposes to give Spinal Adjustments without cost to the poor and especially children, whose parents feel unable to have them adjusted. Quite a number of children are suffering with various ailments, any of which may be come serious and permanent if allowed to go unattended.

No matter what the ailment is, the Chiropractor looks for its cause in the spinal column. Some one of the 24 vertebra can shoulder the blame.

He gives it a scientific adjustment, causing it to snap back into its proper position and the first thing the patient knows the trouble is gone.

LOCAL HIGH LOSE TO WEST NEWTON

The Charleroi high school football team lost to the West Newton team on Saturday afternoon last by a score of 7 to 0. The Charleroi boys put the ball over during the last period, but the referee refused to allow the score, claiming that Charleroi was off-side. As a consequence they lost the score and were penalized. Had the score been allowed the boys would undoubtedly have tied the games, as it would have been an easy chance for goal. During the latter part of the contest the Charleroi boys were ripping the heavy West Newton line for substantial gains, and with a few more minutes of play would have put the ball over. However, the locals are putting up no alibis, giving West Newton credit for the great game they put up. West Newton has quite a number of players who are in the heavyweight class, and who are towers of strength to the team.

Charleroi will play Greensburg next Saturday at Greensburg and will open the local season at home on the 13th of the month with Pittsburg Academy as their opponents.

WANT TO ASSEMBLE AT MONONGAHELA

The exemption board of the Fifth District is desirous of complying with the request of the citizens of Monongahela, who are anxious to give a farewell reception to the next contingent of men who are to leave for the training camp at Chillicothe, O. The Board requested the state authorities last week to allow them to have the men assemble at Monongahela, where the necessary preliminary details could be made out, but up until this morning no reply had been received. On Saturday the Board mailed a long letter to the Adjutant General's department, setting forth the reasons why it would be desirable to have the men assmble at Monongahela. In the meantime orders have arrived directing the men to assemble at Donora, while the Pennsylvania railroad also has its orders issued for the train to leave that point. However, the Board hopes to have a change made that the citizens of Monongahela may have one opportunity to show their good will toward the men who have been called under the draft.

BOARD ASKS FOR FOUR VOLUNTEER CLERKS

Chairman Jhn O. Watson of the exemption board of the Fifth District this morning stated they would like to have four volunteer clerks to offer their services for Wednesday or Thursday of this week. These clerks are wanted to report at the Donora headquarters, to make out the necessary papers that are required before sending a contingnt of men to the training camps. The requirements are, that those who will offer their services write a plain and legible hand. Those who wish to offer their services can leave their names at the Mail office, and they will be turned over to Mr. Watson. This srvice must be voluntary and without compensation as the board is not allowed any money for additional clerk hire. However, this opportunity will afford those who not only desire to do their "bit," but their best a chance to do something for the benefit of their country.

ALL-STARS REFUSED TO SHINE IN CONTEST

The game at the Charleroi ball park on Saturday between the Steel Products and the All-Stars proved to be a one-sided contest, the Products taking over their opponents by a score of 7 to 1. The All Stars refused to shine either at bat or in the field, although Marty Berghammer for the Stars did work the delayed steal on Jamison and Guder. This steal saved them from a shut-out, as Marty later scored from second on a hit. During the game Manager Regester and Treasurer Case were each presented with fine large traveling cases by members of the Steel Products team for faithful services rendered during the season closed.

JANE AND KATHERINE LEE IN "A DAUGHTER OF THE GODS"

Jane and Katherine Lee, among the youngest stars in the motion picture world, win all hearts by their marvelous acting, and simple childish grace, in "A Daughter of the Gods" the triumph of the cinema world, which comes to the Majestic Wednesday. The most hardened theatregoer is likely to emit a gasp, we are told when, as little baby mermaids they are washed about by giant waves that entirely envelope them. But these marvelous mites are absolutely without fear and it is pleasant to know that willing hands were always within each reach just outside the range of the camera.

LET EVERY CHILD OWN TREE

Many Reasons Why Its Possession Exerts a Beneficent Influence on Period of Adolescence.

Every child should own a tree. A tree is a symbol of life. It lives. It stands for everything that is noble. It is rooted in the soil and stretches itself toward heaven. It stands for patience, fortitude, persistence, beauty, courage and God. The child should plant the tree and watch it grow with pride. He should put his lips to its rough bark and say: "This tree is mine. I will stand by it, and live up to it."

It is curious how blind we sometimes are to certain ideals because we cannot see and handle them. We need something to connect us with the invisible but none the less potent informative world of aspiration and respiration. What could be better than a tree?

There is something about the silent beauty of a tree that casts over us a spell of calmness and invincibility. The storms of winter may sway and break our branches, the grim and melancholy autumn may strip us of our brilliance, but the spring will come once more and clothe us in a new glory. So we go on fulfilling the majesty of the law.

If your child owns a tree, the memory of its beneficent influence will cling to him through life.—Country Gentleman.

ADAM HELD UP AS MODEL

Undoubtedly First Man Had Many Points of Superiority Over the Modern Husband.

Adam, the first, was a man of lovable disposition and a model husband, so I am informed by the recorders of early events. Never once in the recollection of his biographers did he speak ill of his beloved soul mate in the presence of human company, and according to those who were let into his exclusive confidence and were able to know all his private affairs, he never kicked on her cooking, nor growled at her housework. Whether she wore her gowns high-cut or low in the neck was a matter of little or no concern to him so long as she was respectably attired in the fashion of the period. And when she got fired from the Palm garden for nibbling apples without someone's consent, Adam didn't sneak off to Reno, as husbands do today, to apply for a divorce. No. He cast aside his overalls, threw up his job and went out with the little lady like a little man. That was the kind of a spareribbe he was.—Cartoons Magazine.

Bonuses for Babies.

It is often suggested that state bonuses should be paid for babies after the war, in order to increase the population, remarks a writer in London Tit-Bits. Australia has already set the example in this respect, and since 1912 a good number of parents have received the £5, which is the maximum allowance for children of white parentage.

But state bonuses fall into insignificance when compared with the substantial sums of money which are now and then allotted to babies by generous individuals. A notable instance occurred at New York four years ago. The manager of the traffic department at the Waldorf hotel had done frequent services for a rich steel magnate, and always refused anything in the shape of gratuities. But when the traffic manager got married the steel magnate declared that he would get even by forwarding a bonus for the first baby. The baby was born about twelve months after the marriage, and the Pittsburgher kept his word by forwarding a check for £5,000, to be put in the bank as a trust fund for the child.

Fathers and Sons in Congress.

The statement that the election of John H. Bankhead to the United States senate and that of his son, William B. Bankhead, to the house of representatives from the state of Alabama is the first instance in the political history of this country where father and son have served contemporaneously in congress is an error. Henry Southard of Basking ridge, Somerset county, New Jersey, was elected to congress in 1800, serving until 1811, and again in 1814, serving until 1821. February 16, 1821, his son, Samuel L. Southard, took his seat in the congress as United States senator from New Jersey, and was at once assigned to the joint committee on the Missouri compromise resolutions, and both voted in favor of them. It is claimed that Senator Southard was the actual originator of the resolutions, and induced Henry Clay to introduce them.

Remembered Fellow-Sufferer.

An acquaintance formed in a boat full of castaways half a century ago bore tangible fruit for Frederick Clough of San Francisco, who has been notified that through the will of Henry Ferguson of Hartford, Conn., he is left a bequest of $100 a month for the rest of his life. Clough is now seventy-one years of age. When he met Ferguson, Clough was a sailor on the old clipper ship Hornet, and Ferguson was a passenger. The ship caught fire in the South Pacific and the two escaped in a boat with thirteen members of the crew. After forty-four days of extreme hardship, during which they ran short of both food and water, the party finally made one of the Hawaiian islands. Theirs was the only boat saved. Clough and Ferguson both went to San Francisco, the former remaining there and the latter returning to his home in Hartford.

JUST WANTED HIS LAUNDRY

But Methods Employed by New York Man to Get It Involved Him in Serious Trouble.

If any one had spoken to Charles Turpin the other day at two o'clock it is just about a ten-to-one shot that no answer would have been forthcoming. For at that hour Mr. Turpin was being removed, feet up, from the rathskeller laundry of Charles Fung, West Fourteenth street, followed by the ruin of his own laundry bundle, the imported imprecations of Mr. Fung and two policemen, who were ready at a moment's notice to repeat what had already been transacted regarding Mr. Turpin's skull, says the New York Herald. In brief, Mr. Turpin was as busy as a witch.

Inasmuch as Mr. Turpin has made no statement other than that the remaining days of C. Fung upon this earth are numbered, it is difficult to learn what started the typhoon. Mr. Fung speaks a number of dialects which no one cares to listen to, and aside from gestures his descriptive powers seem notoriously weak.

All that is clear is that Mr. Turpin, having lost his check, demanded his laundry at once, and during the indecision of C. Fung, began to open bundles and try on anonymous shirts. Mr. Fung blew a police whistle once, after which Mr. Turpin is alleged to have sent the whistle in one blow from Mr. Fung's mouth to a point off Sandy Hook. It took three policemen to convince Mr. Turpin that in matters pertaining to laundry he is all wrong, and in the Jefferson Market court he was held in $1,500 bail as an unusually disorderly customer.

KNEW WEAKNESS OF WOMEN

During the reign of Louis XV of France, the light chaise came into fashion, and great ladies of Paris were accustomed to drive in them about the city. But beautiful hands are not always strong ones; accidents began to occur more and more frequently in the streets. Consequently, says Das Buch fur Alle, the king besought the minister of police to do something, since the lives of pedestrians were constantly in danger.

"I will do whatever is in my power," replied the police minister. "Your majesty desires that these accidents cease entirely?"

The king replied, "Certainly. See to it that they do."

The next day there appeared a royal ordinance that ordered that, in the future, ladies under thirty years of age should not drive chaises through the streets of Paris. That seems a mild restriction; but it is said that scarcely a woman from that time on drove her own chaise. The police minister knew that few women would care to advertise the fact that they were over thirty, and that the rest would probably be too old to drive.

"Bird" Without His Feathers.

An amusing story is being related in London reminiscent of Gallipoli days. It tells of General Birdwood, whose wont it was to move freely about among his troops, often in the heat of the day, clad only in khaki shorts and a shirt, and his coat, with the customary stripes and insignia of his rank, discarded. He was talking one day, with an Australian private who, quite ignorant of the general's identity, was lolling casually against the side of a trench, and addressing his commander in chief quite as an equal, much to the dismay of a near-by subaltern. When the general had passed along, this "sub" took it upon himself to enlighten the private of the enormity of his ignorance. At the finish of the junior officer's harangue said the private to the "sub": "Very sorry, sir, but how was I to know who he was? Why doesn't he wear his feathers, like any other bird would?"

Not a Swede.

Alderman Capitain is a member of the home guards of the Twenty-fifth ward, says the Chicago Herald. He took Alderman Toman out to see the drill soon after the latter returned from investigating Boston saloons. Toman was put in line and the instructor announced that he would give a lesson in Swedish gymnastics. The younger men went through the drill with ease. Toman began to puff. He finally blurted out: "I'm too old for that sort of stuff."

"How old are you?" inquired the instructor.

"Thirty-eight."

"Fine," commented the instructor. "The Swedes use this sort of exercise at the age of sixty."

"I'm no Swede; I'm a Bohemian," said Toman as he got out of line.

British Tommies' Wit.

The British soldier is famous for his humor, and in Malta, recently, he rose to the occasion. The system of horticulture in the island is, of course, almost unique. The ground being mostly plain rock, gardens are formed by importing soil and just laying it out on the hard surface. Thus the smallest possible patches are used as gardens, and are shifted, at will, from place to place, the whole performance being a source of great interest to the British Tommy. "I have seen our soldiers," says one writer, "standing in rows staring in wonder at the busy workers, and once I heard a large corporal bear witness to the effect it had on him. "'Well,' he said, 'after this I reckon I'll keep a cow grazing in the window box, when I get home.'"
